

Master Geopolitics

Geopolitics, compliance and public affairs

MASTER 1 ET 2

The Master's degree in Geopolitics is a high-level international training program. Designed for students of all nationalities and delivered exclusively in English, it meets the growing needs of the industrial, banking and insurance sectors, which are shaken by geopolitical uncertainties, by preparing students for three careers: lobbying within international institutions, compliance in the banking sector and finally business intelligence.

Specific advantages:

PROFESSIONNALIZATION

Faculty composed of practitioners in public affairs, compliance and business intelligence

PERSONAL TUTORSHIP

Methodological support for optimizing communication in business.

INTERNSHIP

Internship in France or abroad (semesters 2 and 4)

PRACTICAL WORK

One third of the training is constituted of practical work

TRAINING IN ENGLISH

Training delivered exclusively in English

National Diploma of Master

Admission:

- Degree of political sciences, law, economics, management
- Degree of mathematics, computer studies
- Degree of foreign language

Based on application and interview

Rates: consult the website (ices.fr)

Professions and business sectors

- Public Affairs: Lobbying within law firms dedicated to influence.
- Compliance - banking sector
- Political risk analyst - insurance sector
- Business intelligence, OSINT (open source intelligence)
- Geopolitical risk consulting
- Analyst working for a Chief Geopolitical Officer

ICES, recognized for the excellence of its teaching, is located in a dynamic entrepreneurial region, conducive to work-study programs and the creation of professional networks.

The ICES Business Center specifically supports master's students by providing them with essential resources for their professional integration.

The ICES Master's campus expansion offers optimal working conditions and a participatory student life.

Master's objectives

The Master's in Geopolitics pursues three objectives: It provides students with a basic geopolitical culture that gives them perspective and vision. It provides specialized teaching focused on the skills required by companies hiring executives in the fields of influence, compliance, or business intelligence. It connects students with professionals working in the field to ensure up-to-date experience transfer while expanding their network.

Personalised student support takes the form of:

- Personalized support
- Small class sizes
- Available teachers

Program

(Detailed programme available on ices.fr)

Practice of influence within the European Union, investigations into the dark web, geopolitics of the underground economy.

+ Languages (arab, chinese, russian)
+ TOEIC

+ Voltaire certificate
+ Internships (semesters 2 and 4)

Objectives and skills targeted

- Risk anticipation
- Investigation
- Influence

20 students
on average

A class on a human scale

85 % find a job
within 6 months

Average professional integration after a Master's degree ICES

'While geopolitical risk has become the primary threat for multinational companies, this master's degree prepares future executives for the uncertain world of tomorrow.'

FACULTY OF POLITICAL SCIENCE AND HISTORY

> Contact: master-geopolitics@ices.fr

ices.fr

ICES
17 bd des Belges
85 000 La Roche-sur-Yon
02 51 46 12 13